It has already been patched many decided to replace by a new, a better, and more movement, and an order-was given to the well ary, 1885, and the organ is expected out very shortly. An organ chamber has already been prepared for it in the Cathedral, facing the present organ, on the other side of the choir. It will be a little larger than the is therefore, probably the largest organ in the Far East. When the order was given we published a description of its stops, &c., but two years have elapsed since then, and the facts given then will doubtless be forgotton by most who rend them. Turning again to the Fete and Fancy Fair, we must not omit to do justice to those who have been instrumental in bringing about the very pleasant evening's entertainment the public were able to enjoy yesterday, and will be able to participate in again to-night. Mr. H. M. Thomsett is the Hon. Secretary of the Organ he was unfortunately overtaken with sickness, colony, has yet rendered material assistance to the schome by selecting in England, and sending out here, the whole stock in trade of the shops at the Fancy Fair. The goods have been selected with great judgment, and the ladies have. owing to the prices at which they were purchased, been enabled to sell them at very reasonable charges, which is not a conspicuous feature of most basears or fancy fairs. Those who visited the City Hall last evening will be unanimous in opinion that the Committee have done their work well, and that in planning this fête, &c., they have hit upon an excellent idea, and one which will doubtless be followed in the future by other bodies.

The work of the Committee chiefly lay on the upper floor of the building. Beyond the planting of pot plants round the pillars and the arrangement of tables for a cloak room, the entrance hall and staircase call for no description, and the theatre wears its ordinary aspect. The greatest field of activity has been the St. George's Hall, in which, and in the adjoining ante room, has been ercoted the Mediceval Village. Mr. C. Palmer has been the architect, and Mr. Baptista the artist of this most pleasing feature. The houses are in the Early English style, which is now fast becoming so fashionable in England-brick and timber built buildings with overhanging upper stories. One on the eastern side of St. George's Hall is quite a large structure, containing . " shops, one on either side of an archway vh h leads into the verandah: the others are ... a uniform cottage type; beside these cottages there is a stall covered over with canopy, and a circular structure in the centre of the room bright with flowers and foliage, and this is dedicated to Flora. There are light arches of leaves For stream-tin wouldn't stream enough the dividend and flowers all round it, and on the stand a garish display of flowers vended by a number of | Hongkong Hotel Co., Scrip both new and old; the nymphs who are inside the charmed she held some Luzon Sugars, too, but very wisely circle. The other establishments have displays Sho's Class Works, and Ice Works, and Indo-China of fancy and useful articles, tasty little nicknacks &c., of the kind usually seen in bazaars. One is entirely set apart for the sale of fancy glass and china ware, and the objects that are there they include a great number of most tasteful novelties. Another stall has a display of books, fancy stationery, framed photographs of celebrated beauties, all kinds of designs in plush trifles, hand painted mirrors, and a variety of things too numerous to mention in detail. The others show all kinds of artistic needlework, dolls in dresses that might have come from Worth's, and all the thousand and one pretty trifles which at these sales usually tempt the dollars from the visitors, when offered by such irresistible shopkeepers. In one corner is the gipsy encampment

The gipsies here depicted are evidently ideal specimens, and their camp is also decidedly ideal and doubtless it is far more agreeable to all concerned that it should be so There is an enclosure inside which the feet tread upon verdure made by the yard, and amid a bower of plants and flowers there is a placard intimating that somebody's "straight cut" car be purchased there. The fair representatives of the Romany race here sell the fragrant weed in the various forms in which it is commonly consumed. In an inner sanctum, which represents the gipsy's tent, sits the sibyl, who reads the dim pages of futurity to the curious for a small consideration. This witch also dispenses talismans, and her assistants run weighing machines, and sell pocket knives and Bobemian works of art. On one of the stalls there is a wheel of fortune —"all prizesand no blanks"—which is under the management of Mother Hubbard, Dane Trot, and the White Witch. In the antercom there is another cottage, where is dispensed too, confectionery, and various kinds of light refreshment, while in the room adjoining the Theatre, commonly used as a ladies or card room at the balls there is a bar for the sale of liquids of a more potent character. All the ladies who preside at these stalls are in fancy dresses-Russians, Swiss, Italians, Dames of the Red Cross, Vivandières, Flower girls, representatives of the JU -- four seasons, Watteau shepherdesses, ladies of the last century, &c. The effect of these quaint and varied costumes is charming, and the wholesceneat the Villageisextremely picturesque. The St Andrew's Hall is used for the panorama, which was on view every hour. It is all seated out, and the panorama is at the eastern end. The Soudan War is well depicted on over 1,000 feet of canvas, which is wound on rollers in the usual way, and the representations are greatly assisted by a large number of mechanical figures. The show appeared to be greatly appreciated, and the lecturer, who was quite au fait with his work, was frequently applauded. The efternoon performance to-day will afford the children a rare treat. The power of the spell is to endure until, old and ugly as she appears, Molly is "loved for herself alone." While casting the spell, Jemima is surprised by Timothy Legge, a worthy who gains his livelihood as a tout and general spy. She trusts him with her secret, and in order to get Molly safely settled, he engages to marry her to the Hon. John Godown, Jemima's landlord, by representing that she is very rich, since, if married for money and not for love the spell will not be invalidated. THE BILL FOR THE BETTER PRO-TECTION OF YOUNG GIRLS. At the meeting of the Legislative Council yesterday afternoon the Acting Attorney intends to propose on the consideration in committee of the Bill for the better protection of 26th inst., at noon :young girls. The general offect of the amendments is to transfer to the Supreme Court or the Police Magistrates the punitive powers which in the Bill as introduced were conferred on the Registrar-General. In section 3 power was given to the Registrar-General to sentence a person discheving a summons of the Registrar General to appear before him on an inquiry with reference to a child in such person's possession to a fine of $500 or six months' imprisonment. liable to punishment on conviction before a magistrate. A similar alteration is made in section 5 with respect to persons summoned as witnesses. Sections 2 and 4 have been struck out, and new sections to be numbered 4 and 5 have been introduced. The alterarepresented by counsel or solicitor at the inquiry before the Registrar-General: that if just reward, and Molly bestows her hand upon been committed against the provisions of No. 2 of 1875 he is to commute the offender for trial at the Supreme Court: and that if the Registrar-General finds that the obild is intended to be used for improper purposes, he may, if the rate of the day amounts to $146,835.44. dian to give security. Section 5 provides for the matter dealt with by the Registrar-General. In such case the custodian is to be summoned before a Police Magistrate, who, if he find that the child an appeal from the Registrar-General to a Judge and Mr. C. D. be 11 days old on the 1st January) and the epact is called 11. The third year the epact is twice 11-22; the fourth year 3 and 11-33; but, (30 Applying this to the Chinese calendar it will be found to answer exactly and that every ordinary year, or month, commences 11 days ear-the year forward according to the term of the the 24th March this year, on which day it is new moon again at Peking, where the first day of the Chinese calendar this year, and the extra day it will be found by the same system, that the 3rd Chinese more will commence on the new, indisputably, all over China. To say, therefore, that the first day of the third moon of the present year falls on the 25th instead of the 24th March is to say that the first day of the third moon last year, and the first day of the third moon next year, are wrong, which we have seen an error as alleged. There are many other reasons to shew that there are only 29 days to the second moon which no ophemeral production, official, or otherwise, can alter, but I fear I have already said too much upon this subject .- And remain, Sir, your obedient servant, EDITOR. THE NEW OPIUM REGULATIONS.

The following is a translation published by the N. C. Daily News of a Memorial to the Throne or the subject of the regulations necessary to the working of the Additional Article of the Chefoo

Memorial upon the subject of levving at one time the duty and the lokin on opium. It is proposed to direct that the Superintendents and Commissioners at each port co-operate in arranging this business, so as to define where responsibility lies and to avoid further delay. His Majesty's gracious pleasure is respectfully in and then Doughty struck him and damaged his

> With reference to the levy at one and the same time of the duty and lekin charges on opium, be tween the date of the Chefoo Convention, when the subject was broached, to the special clause agreed upon by Tseng Chi-tse, the various plans suggested have been successively submitted to Their Majesties from time to time.

In the 2nd moon of last year the Board of Revenue with the Taung-li Yamen proposed that independently, and that as a total on each chest the Tls. 30 of duty, a further charge of Tls. 86 for lekin, uniformity being required at all the

The idea was, that the lekin being an internal charge, it was to be expected that the amount collected would increase; but after a year's trial it has been found that the collection reported by | On London .-each Provincial Government has not improved. Moreover, considering the number of chests imported, the amount smuggled has increased. For this reason the Tsung-li Yamen, in the first moon of the present year, proposed that His Majesty should despatch Shao Yu-lien to Hongkong in company with the Inspector-General of Customs, Sir Robert Hart, to arrange ON PARIS. a course of action with the British authorities. Messages have been from time to time telegraphed to the Yamen, and copies of them respectfully submitted through the Cabinet Council to His

Sir Robert Hart and Shao Yu-lien have now On Bombay. one after the other returned to Peking, and the

Shao Yu-lien thinks that when oplumenters China, as the Maritime Customs is of course the common centre, the opium should be put into bond when it enters a port and only given over to the merchants for conveyance elsewhere after the duty Chinese year in the local mean time of the places and the lekin shall have been both paid, on the same principle as in the conveyance of salt, on which the dues are collected at the depôt of production.

The Memorialists have carefully thought the matter over, and are of opinion that, unless smuggling is put a stop to, there can be no real improvement expected in the duty and lekin, nor can there be any really effective check kept upon smugglers without the co-operation of the Superintendents and the Commissioners of Customs: for opium is an article which may be in either wholesale or retail quantities, and being i of an unweighty nature is very easily secreted, and thus very easily smuggled. The only course then, is to draw up fresh and distinct regulations, prescribing a definite date for their coming into force, and directing each port to begin at the same time. According to the Convention the double levy on each chest should not exceed Tls. 110, and on entry into port the opium should, according to the new rules, be kept in bond in warehouses or hulks duly secured under the Maritime Customs' authority, and only removed, repacked, and conveyed under passes duly obtained into the interior after payment of the Tls. 30 duty and Tls. 80 lekin. If the original packing shall not have been altered when the merchandise goes into the interior, and if the Maritimes Customs' seal on each ball, number, weight, &c. shall not have been soraped, injured or unduly changed, then there will be no need to pay any further duty or lekin.

The Memorialists are of opinion that if this is at once commenced in accordance with the Convention, and if the plan can only be properly carried out, the advantages will be four. The duty of New Customs will be to store the opium in hond, and the Commissioner will receive and pay out the money as occasion requires, both sides exercising a supervision, and every penny thus finding its way into the public chest This is the first advantage to the State. When the merchandise reaches Chinese hands the duty and lckin having been already cleared off, no further examination or charge will be vantage to the merchants. Ill-disposed Chinese traders are in the habiof setting up sham foreign hongs with a view to smuggling, frequent disputes being the result. Now, gince the merchandise will have paid both its charges previous to leaving the warehouse. knavish traders will have no scope for their devices, and correspondence of all sorts may be simplified and saved. This is the third advantage to

When the new rules come into force the onium barriers can all be abolished, and there being no runners on the roads and in the villages to harass the people, this will be the fourth advantage to

However, as the treaty ports are numerous, a large staff will be required, besides which there is the purchasing of guard-boats, increasing the staff of tidewaiters. &c., involving considerable

The Memorandum now submitted by Sir Robert Hart shows that at first the expense will be considerable, but that it will decrease year by year. Wherever in the world there is gain, there too are the seeds of corruption. The Memoralists will not venture to say that if the Superintendents and Commissioners co-operate there will be no abuses, but as over ten years have passed since this matter was settled by the Convention, and innumerable alternatives have suggested themselves since then, it is better to have it put in force at once and keep our own hand on the benefits and the power of action alike than to keep on hesitating and procrastinating and wasting vast sums of money.

The different Provincial and Customs authorities have so far represented that they do not see their way; and to farm out the business by when the intercalary month is inserted to bring tender only seems to roult in squandering money; whilst the Commissioners have given no assistance beyond collecting the regular duty, in such wise that no good results have followed. drawn up and our minds made up to put the plan into execution, the Superintendents of Customs are deeply beholden for his Majesty's favour and also throughout the colony. It is hoped to arrange Chinese moon was established, and westwards, will naturally be expected to put forth their and allowing for the intercalary month in the most loyal efforts and to exercise an honest supervision. The Commissioners all owe their for leap year in the English calendar next year, emo'uments to China, and they too must break with all biased feeling and contribute to make a success of it. Taking the annal import for instance at 70,000 chests, the amount of duty and lekin collected must necessarily be in advance of what it has hitherto been. For these reasons, the Memorialists, after repeated consideration, have come to the conclusion that this is the only possible plan of action. As to the detailed rules and everything of that nature, the Superintendents missioners of Castoms. The main point is to provide liberal means for carrying the thing out so that the steps taken may be of a complete nature. And the responsibilities must be strictly defined so that the whole collection may be actually realised. Should it happen that, after a trial, the course of action be found to present slight difficulties, these can be arranged as they occur and means found to add to or correct as the case may be. Should His Majesty be pleased to accord his consent, the Tsung-li Yamen will proceed at once to request the Two Superintendents of Trade for the Northern and Southern Ports to give the necessary instructions to Sir Robert Hart for transmission to the Commissioners. They would propose as the beginning, from which to commence | Temperature It is probably owing in no small degree to the operations, the first moon of next year. W. DOBERCK: Hongkong Observatory, 11th February, 1887. GREAT EXCITEMENT IN WALKS ABOUT A MARVELLOUS CURE. LIVING SIX YEARS WITHOUT GOING TO BED.

'Mr. EDITOR,-While spending a few days at the pleasant seaside town of Aberystwith, Cardiganshire, Wales, I heard related what seemed to me either a fabulous story or a marvellous cure. The story was that a poor sufferer who had. not been able to lie down in bed for six long years, given up to die by all the Doctors, had been speedily cured by some Patent Medicine. It was related with the more implicit confidence from the circumstance, as was said, that the Vicar of Llanrystyd was familiar with the facts, and could Pedder Street. The First and Second Floors votal for the truth of the report. Having a liftle curiosity to know how such Offices stories grow in travelling, I took the liberty while at the village of Llaurystyd to call upon been compied by Messrs. BLACKHEAD & Co. as the Vienr, the Rev. T. Evans, and to enquire a STORE, will also be let complete, or subabout this wonderful curs. Though a total divided to meet the requirements. strunger to him, both he and his wife most graciously entertained me in a half hour's conversation, principally touching the case of Mr. Pugh, in, which they seemed to take a deep and sympathetic interest, having been familiar with his sufferings, and now rejoiced in what seemed to them a most remarkable cure. The Vicar remarked that he presumed his name had been connected with the report from his having mentioned the case to Mr. John Thomas, a chemist FRIME FIVE ROOMED HOUSE "BANof Lianon. He said Mr. Pugh was formerly a resident of their parish, but was now living in the parish of Llanddeinel

He strongly veuched Mr. Wm. Pugh's character as a respectable farmer and worthy of credit. I left the venerable Vicar with a livelier seuse of the happy relation of a pastor and people. feeling that he was one who truly sympathised with all who are afflicted in mind, body, or estate. On my return to Aberystwith, I was impressed with a desire to see Mr. Pugh, whose reputation stood so high. His farm is called Pancom-Mawr, signifying "above the dingle," situated near the stunmit of a smooth round hill, overlooking a heautiful valley in which is situated the lovely ivymentled Church of Llanddeinel. I found Mr. Pugh, apparently about 40 years old, of medium height, rather slight, with a pleasant and intelligent face. I told him I heard of his great affliction and of his remarkable and almost miraculous relief, and that I had come to learn from his own lips, what there was of truth in the

Mr. Pugh remarked that his neighbours had taken a kindly and sympathetic interest in his cale for many years, but of late their interest had been greatly awakened by a happy change in his condition. What you report as having heard abroad, said he, is substantially true, with one exception. I never understood that my case was 5 Rooms ever given up as hopeless by any Physician. Early in this last spring I had a still more severe spasmodic attack, and my family and neighbours became alarmed, believing that certainly I would not survive when a neighbour, who bud some knowledge, or had heard of the medicine, sent to Aberystwith by the driver of the Omnibus Post, some seven miles distant, and fetched a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative
